THE DIAGNOSIS

Your store's real problem isn't clarity or effort — it's trust at the moment people decide to buy. The good news: trust problems are the most fixable.

THE SUMMARY – BIGGEST WINS FIRST

THE FIX	EST. IMPACT	EFFORT	WHO
Shipping cost surprises people at the last step	$3-6k/mo	low	You
Your best proof is hidden below the fold	$2-5k/mo	low	You
A claim that works against you (and is a compliance risk)	risk removal	med	Me
The site is slow on mobile	$2-4k/mo	high	Me
The homepage doesn't say what you sell or who it's for	$1-2k/mo	low	You

HOMEPAGE & CLARITY

The homepage doesn't say what you sell or who it's for

YOU CAN DO THIS

The first screen is a nice image and a vague tagline — a new visitor can't tell what you sell, for whom, or why you're different. Confused visitors leave.

The fix: A clear hero: what + for whom + why you + a clear next step.

Estimated impact: $1-2k/mo (an estimate to confirm against your data)

TRUST & PROOF

Your best proof is hidden below the fold

YOU CAN DO THIS

The thing that convinces a first-time buyer — your lab test, your best review — sits far down the page, where most people never scroll. So it never does its job.

The fix: Move one strongest proof element up beside the buy button.

Estimated impact: $2-5k/mo (an estimate to confirm against your data)

A claim that works against you (and is a compliance risk)

I'D HANDLE THIS

Wording on the page implies a health outcome that crosses the line regulators watch — which both risks a warning letter and makes savvy buyers trust you less.

The fix: Rewrite to compliant structure/function language that keeps the persuasion and removes the exposure.

Estimated impact: risk removal (an estimate to confirm against your data)

CHECKOUT & CART

Shipping cost surprises people at the last step

YOU CAN DO THIS

Shipping only appears at final checkout, with no free-shipping threshold shown earlier. Surprise cost at checkout is the single most common reason carts are abandoned.

The fix: Show shipping and a free-shipping threshold earlier — on the product page and cart.

Estimated impact: $3-6k/mo (an estimate to confirm against your data)

SPEED & TECHNICAL

The site is slow on mobile

I'D HANDLE THIS

Most of your traffic is on phones, and the pages load slowly. Every extra second of load measurably drops conversion.

The fix: Remove unused apps, compress images, defer scripts.

Estimated impact: $2-4k/mo (an estimate to confirm against your data)

The guarantee: if this audit doesn't surface at least five fixes worth implementing, it's free.

NEXT STEP

Let's walk through this together — and if the “I'd handle this” items are worth doing, I'll scope them. No pitch.
